DETAILED ACTION

1. The request filed on 9/27/2007 for Continued Examination (RCE) under 37 CFR 1.114 based on parent Application No. 10/751,579 is acceptable and a RCE has been established. An action on the RCE follows.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 63 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102 (b) as being anticipated by Sherts et al (5,792,149).

The patent of Sherts discloses the following limitations, including: a grip assembly 12 which has a handle, an applicator barrel 18 attaches to the grip assembly, a blood vessel clip 60, a magazine 22 connects to the applicator barrel, the magazine has a plunger space at 46 and a passage which separated by a divider shim at 32, where a distal end of the magazine defines an exit aperture at either end 25, the magazine passage adapted to hold the blood vessel clip, and where the magazine includes a constricted region narrower than a head of the blood vessel clip. It is noted that a constricted region narrower than a head occurred at either tip 62 which compared to the head of the blood vessel at 60, and where a plunger 20 connects to the grip assembly and adapted to move the blood vessel clip 60 through the exit aperture.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 64-68 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sherts (5,792,149) in view of Green (4,934,364).

Sherts discloses the device substantially as claimed except for the barrel includes first and second pins which at least one pin is attached to the distal end of the barrel

Green discloses at least one pin attached to the distal end of the barrel (figs. 21,22 element 160)

Thus, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Sherts by making the device has two pins as taught by Green to assist in removing the clip from the end of the device, because one of ordinary skill in the art would have been able to carry out such a substitution with an additional pin, and the results were reasonably predictable.
